BEIRUT (UPI) — Algeria and the United States will restore diplomatic relations, broken during the 1967 Arab-Israeli war, after agreement on the disengagement of Syrian and Israeli forces is reached, the Iraqi News Agency reported from Algiers today.

An agreement in principle to resume diplomatic relations between the two countries was reached in New York last month, during the visit of Algerian President Houari Boumedienne, the agency said.

TF city employees may join Teamsters

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Most city employees here are preparing to join the Teamsters labor union. Teamsters Union business representative Roy Corson, Twin Falls, said this morning that nearly all of the 50 to 60 city employees, excluding police, have signed cards calling for union representation.

Within the next two months, Corson said, he will approach city officials to ask for recognition. "I'm laying my groundwork," he said. He would not go into detail.

But Corson did say that he has been meeting with city employees as a group to discuss organizing.

If the city recognizes the Teamsters as the employees' union, wage bargaining would start immediately, Corson said. He said the secretary-treasurer of the local union, Harold (Spec) Reynolds, will be brought in to help bargain.

If the city does not agree to recognize the union or to hold elections among city workers as to whether they want Teamster representation, pressure might be necessary, he said.

Corson said the police in Idaho Falls recently had to go on strike to achieve recognition of the union.

But he would not say what the employees might do here if the city does not recognize the union.

Corson said he "just backed off" from trying to organize the police after one officer said "no way" to initial inquiries.

Wages of city non-administrative personnel here, ranging from $500 to $650 a month, are substantially lower than wages of unionized city employees, he said. Corson said the upper limit for many employees who have been working for the city 10 to 15 years is $650 a month.

City Manager Gene Miller today said he has heard nothing about the Teamster drive.

He said he did not know how the city council would respond to the union's asking for recognition. But he said the council is "not required by state law to recognize any bargaining agent."

'Alien' dies in stabbing

HAGERMAN — A man described as an illegal alien was stabbed to death here Sunday.

A companion was jailed on charges of first degree murder, Gooding County sheriff's officers said today.

Pedrocin Pineda, about 40, Mexican, was dead on arrival at Gooding County Memorial Hospital late Sunday, Sheriff's officers said.

Another man, Salvador Sorroco, 28, also reportedly an illegal alien, is in custody charged with first degree murder and awaiting appearance today in magistrate court.

Officers said the incident occurred about 8:30 p.m. on the Buckeye Ranch just southwest of Hagerman where the men were apparently employed.

Officers said a butcher knife was taken from the scene as the suspected murder weapon.

Mideast fighting persists; Henry continues shuttling

By United Press International

Syrian and Israeli forces Monday fought artillery, tank and armor battles on Mt. Hermon and along the 40-mile Golan Heights front for the 70th day while Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger continued his shuttle diplomacy in the search for a formula to separate the two armies.

Even while Kissinger conferred in Damascus with President Hafez Assad in what could be the final stages of his three-week peace-seeking mission, Palestinians staged a memorial service for three guerrillas who died in an attack on an Israeli schoolhouse at Maalot last Wednesday. A speaker's platform collapsed under Nasser Hawatmeh, leader of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, and part of the crowd fled in panic when guerrillas started shooting in the air.

In Jerusalem, Prime Minister Golda Meir and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan told the Knesset

(Parliament) that Israel must intensify its war against Arab guerrillas following the massacre at Maalot in which 21 school children were among 40 persons killed.

"The blood of our children calls upon us to intensify our war against the terrorists and to persevere in order to get to the nests of the terrorists wherever they are," Mrs. Meir said.

"Force fighting is going on in large sectors of the front since this morning," a Syrian military communique said an hour after Kissinger's arrival in Damascus on his seventh shuttle trip.

"Units of tanks, field artillery and rockets as well as various types of mortars are taking part in the fighting," the Syrians said. They claimed "undetermined losses" on the Israeli side in the 70th consecutive day of fighting on the Heights.

The Israeli military command in Tel Aviv reported no casualties.

Lebanon said the Golan fighting spilled over into its territory when an Israeli patrol entered Lebanon in the foothills of Mt. Hermon. The Beirut Defense Ministry said Lebanese army artillery fired on the patrol and the Israelis fired back at a Lebanese army post but reported no casualties.

No new Israeli reprisals against Palestinian refugee camps in Lebanon were reported Monday after three days of air and sea raids. An Arab League meeting in Cairo said Lebanon's defenses must be bolstered by other Arab states.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy said at the opening of the Cairo parley that the Israeli reprisals were aggressions against Lebanon that the rest of the Arab world "does not take lightly" but he specified no counter-action.

UPI diplomatic correspondent K.C. Thaler reported from London that Kremlin leaders are seeking a meeting with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to prevent him from falling farther and faster under American influence.

FBI calls Patty 'fugitive'

(C) New York Times Service

LOS ANGELES — The Federal Bureau of Investigation has classified Patricia Hearst as "an armed and dangerous fugitive."

Agents also announced felony charges will be filed against the newspaper heiress relating to the use of illegal automatic weapons.

An FBI spokesman said Miss Hearst, the 20-year-old daughter of Randolph A. Hearst, editor and publisher of the San Francisco Examiner, was the woman who raked a Los Angeles storefront with machine-gun fire last Thursday.

At the same time, the body of a sixth member of the Symbionese Liberation Army found in charred ruins of the terrorist group's hideout was identified as that of Camilia Hall, 29.

Officers combing the wreckage had believed that only the bodies of five SLA members removed from the smoldering shell after the raid had accounted for all those inside.

The incident occurred, he said, when Miss Hearst's two accomplices, William and Emily Harris, were stopped by store employees for shoplifting. The employees later identified Miss Hearst as the wielder of the weapons, according to William Sullivan, assistant director of the bureau's Los Angeles office.

Later that night, Sullivan said, the three abducted a high school youth who later told investigators that Miss Hearst was introduced to him by the others as "Tania," the surname that Miss Hearst used in several recorded messages delivered to her family.

In addition, he said, information about Miss Hearst's participation in an armed holdup of a San Francisco bank last month would be presented to a federal grand jury in that city today.

The announcement ran counter to the opinion still held by her family, that Miss Hearst was a captive of the radical terrorist group that kidnapped her from her Berkeley apartment last Feb. 4.

Fire conspiracy ruled out

By ED MITCHELL
Times-News Writer

BURLEY — Burley police have ruled that there was no conspiracy in the burning of a striking union's office here Thursday.

A Burley woman has been charged with arson in connection with the blaze.

Investigation of the incident has been closed, according to a police spokesman.

"The fire at the American Federation of Labor-Millers headquarters was an isolated incident and not a concerted effort," Police Chief Gary Booth said today.

Mary Odeen Sorenson, 32, Burley, was arraigned Friday on charges of arson and assault with intent to commit murder after she allegedly used gasoline to start the office blaze.

Prior to the incident Thursday, Sorenson reportedly had complained of harassment. According to Booth and Cassia Pros. Atty. Gordon Nelson, the woman had reported to police that her car tires were slashed while the car was parked at her home.

Sorenson resigned May 10 from the Grain Millers union to go back to work at the Heyburn J. R. Simplot plant. The union has been on strike there since May 2. She reportedly resigned on the advice of the American Processing Workers Independent Union, a new union which was formed at the Heyburn plant in February.

The new union will have no official standing until at least 30 percent of the work force at the plant resign from the Grain Millers Union and ask for new elections to vote on a choice of action, according to Evelyn Larson, a spokesman for the new union.

Sorenson was not a member of the new union, because "no one can join our union," Mrs. Larson said.

Mrs. Larson said that "someone is apparently picking on girls who don't have any men around." Sorenson is a divorcee.

Park runs again

BOISE (UPI) — Attorney General W. Anthony Park announced today his candidacy for another term in office on the Democratic ticket.

New completing his first term as attorney general, Park said one of the main reasons he is seeking reelection is "to enable me to continue to bring to full fruition certain important programs begun in this term."

He cited the consumer protection effort for Idaho which he began after enactment of the Idaho Consumer Protection Act in 1971.

Nixon pushes health aid

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon appealed today for rapid congressional approval of his national health insurance program, claiming that health care charges will continue rising and that every American must be assured adequate means to meet the cost.

In a nationwide radio address, the President also urged the health care industry "to take every action at their disposal" to hold down prices and said failure to move voluntarily "could lead to drastic, congressionally imposed mandatory controls."

Nixon acknowledged at the outset of his speech that he chose to speak out once again in pushing the plan he advanced last February because the Senate Finance Committee is opening hearings Tuesday on the whole concept of national health insurance, with consideration of some sharply different proposals.

"Never has the need been greater, or the national climate more favorable for the development of a sound consensus on a comprehensive program of health insurance than today," Nixon said.

Two witnesses, also being held as illegal aliens, are Arturo Gregorio and Jesus Lopez, no ages given.

Sheriff's officers said details of the incident are sketchy because of language difficulties, but apparently the four Mexican nationals had been drinking and an argument developed. Sheriff Earl Brown said none of the witnesses speaks English and an interpreter was being brought to the jail today for questioning.

Dr. James Molchan, Gooding county coroner, was not available for an official ruling on the death.

Sheriff Brown said the victim was stabbed in the left chest. He said the incident took place in a bunkhouse on the ranch.

The body of Pineda was taken to Thompson Funeral Chapel pending location of relatives.

Fatal TF fire ruled arson

TWIN FALLS — A house fire which killed one man and injured two persons here Saturday has been ruled arson, according to Twin Falls police.

Capt. Tim Qualls, chief of detectives, said he will meet with Pros. Atty. Robert Galle today to determine legal action to be taken.

Qualls confirmed that one of the injured persons, Jerome

Cree 45, Twin Falls, is in "protective custody" at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Listed in serious condition at the hospital today were Priscilla Machipness, 28, Twin Falls. She suffered burns over about 60 per cent of her body.

hospital officials said. Cree, with burns about the legs and lower body, is listed in fair condition.

Jerry Parrott, 39, Twin Falls, was found dead in a bed in the house. Officers said the fire was reported at the home of Mrs. Pearl Tipton, 1041 Second Ave. W., about 1:15 a.m. Saturday by a neighbor.

Flames destroyed the small frame building. Mrs. Tipton was in the building but escaped injury. Mrs. Machipness reportedly fled the building with her clothing on fire.

Patty termed fugitive

The statement by the bureau followed a series of bizarre events that began Friday night with a massive police raid on three hide-outs of the group in a black neighborhood near Watts. Six central figures of the self-styled SLA army were killed in the exchange of gunfire with the police.

"Three are armed and extremely dangerous individuals," he said, referring to Miss Hearst and the Harries. "All law enforcement agencies will treat her like any federal fugitive," he continued, "and she will be given every opportunity to surrender."

Miss Hearst and the Harries were traced to Griffith Park shortly after noon Friday, hours before more than 150 heavily armed policemen assaulted the hide-out of the six other SLA leaders—about 10 miles away.

About 12 hours before they were spotted there, three persons had abandoned a Ford van and its owner, Tom Dean Matthews, 18, in a remote section of the Hollywood hills.

The youth told investigators he had been abducted earlier that evening when a woman, whom he later identified as Mrs. Harrie, came to his home in Lynwood, a few miles from the site of the "shopping" incident, and inquired about a van he had advertised for sale.

He said he was forced to accompany them for the next 12 hours as they drove around the site of the "shopping" while at a drive-in movie where one of the women made repeated phone calls.

"During the period of time they drove around," Sullivan said, "I saw a woman, a woman saw Patricia Hearst load an automatic weapon. Patricia Hearst, who was introduced to him by William Harrie, as 'Tania,' told him she had participated in the robbery of a bank in San Francisco and was the one who had fired shots at Mel's Sporting Goods, Inglewood, that day to help the Harries escape. All three of these individuals told Matthews that they were with the SLA."

Dr. Thomas Noguchi, Los Angeles County coroner, said Miss Hall's badly burned body was found under a collapsed portion of the floor next to the remains of a cat believed to be Miss Hall's pet.

He said the police now were assured no more bodies were left in the ruins.

Miss Hall, who the coroner said was killed by gunshot wounds to the head, was wearing an ammunition belt around her waist. She has been described as a sensitive woman, a self-styled artist and poet, who had majored in the humanities at the University of Minnesota and worked as a social worker in Duluth and a counselor to unwed mothers in Minneapolis before moving to Berkeley four years ago.

Black 'soldiers' nabbed in clash

CHICAGO, (UPI) — Three men who called themselves "soldiers in a black liberation army" executed an unsanctioned railroad security guard and then got caught in a police shootout late Sunday.

One of the three was killed. The others, David Beverly and Leonard Mosley, both 21-year-old students at Chicago's Malcolm X College, were charged today with one count each of murder and attempted murder.

Police Sgt. Francis Lee said three men who called themselves "self-styled black revolutionaries" broke into a piggy-back freight car in a South Side Penn Central Railroad yard. The security guard on the tracks, a trainee of only three weeks, spotted the break-in and hunted down the thieves.

His pursuit was stopped by a bullet. A partner found guard William Templin, 27, lying face

RALPH OLMSTEAD
... seeks new term

Idahoans split on bus votes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Idaho's senators split their votes three out of four times on busing amendments to the school aid bill considered in Congress last week.

Democratic Frank Church supported, and Republican James McClure opposed, an amendment that would bar parents from ordering busing any further than the school closest or next-closest to a student's home and would reopen existing court actions requiring busing. The measure passed 47-45.

Both senators voted yes on an amendment which stated that courts must order busing only as a last resort. The amendment passed 56-36.

A third amendment would have allowed a student to attend any school in his district and was defeated 53-38. Church voted no while McClure cast a yes vote.

The final busing compromise, approved 47-46, adopted the nearest or next-nearest school plan to carry out the equal protection clause of the constitution and does not reopen previous court cases; McClure voted against the compromise, and Church did not vote on the measure.

Olmstead Seen... sets 2nd term bid

Olmstead, seeking his second term in the Idaho House of Representatives, is a farmer and feedlot operator. A Twin Falls native, Olmstead resigned as chairman of the Twin Falls Highway District when he was elected to the state legislature in 1972. He is a graduate of Twin Falls High School and the University of California.

"I am dedicated to fighting inflation and curbing the expansion of government," the 48-year-old legislator said in announcing his candidacy. "I will work for a level of state spending that does not increase every taxpayer's burden."

Olmstead is married and the father of six children.

Question

Does a coroner or medical examiner have the right to direct where a deceased person be taken after death?

Answer...

The orderly process of government requires that sudden and violent deaths be thoroughly investigated. When the coroner or medical examiner is involved in these circumstances he must, legally, delay removal of the body from the jurisdiction until the cause of death is determined, but he may not order the body sent to any private mortuary without the consent of the decedent's family. If none of the family is available at the time of death the coroner or examiner may order the body temporarily removed to a public morgue or private mortuary. Where this is done, the receiving facility takes safety as a responsibility until a mortuary is chosen by the survivors. It is morally, ethically, and legally wrong for any emergency procedure to remove the body of a person from the jurisdiction without the consent of the family or without the approval of either legal or disciplinary action.

TWIN FALLS — An Idaho Falls Democrat running for Congress says he doesn't have the $150 needed to file for office.

Keith Holve, a 28-year-old candidate seeking the Democratic nomination for Idaho's Second District Congressional seat, Friday said he believes Idaho's filing fee requirements are unconstitutional.

Holve said such fees could keep impoverished candidates from seeking office.

Holve said he was fired from his job at the Idaho Falls Ponderosa Inn restaurant and motel because of his political campaign and has been unemployed since.

He said he hopes to raise the $150 by the filing deadline June 7.

"To me it's prohibitive, because most candidates have financial backing. I don't," Holve said.

"The main emphasis for me is I think it is discriminatory. It is a statute that should be rectified."

Holve said court rulings have overturned similar filing fees in California and Utah.

"He said he had protested to the Idaho Secretary of State's office, but was told that Idaho Attorney General Tony Frazier had given an opinion saying the California court case did not affect Idaho's statute."

Holve said his candidacy offered to bring integrity to government.

The incumbent Orval Hansen is "honest" but lacks "integrity." By that, Holve said, he means Hansen is beholden to political interest groups; something Holve said he would not be.

Holve was less certain about other political questions:

— He said he would obtain minor House committee appointments but said he didn't know how he was going to manage doing it.

— He said he didn't know whether there should be a balanced federal budget. If he did decide to support a balanced budget, he said, he did not know whether cutting spending or raising taxes was the best approach.

— He said he was not aware that the Federal Reserve System had a role in national monetary policy, and said he did not know whether he would support efforts by the Reserve to limit inflation by raising interest rates.

— He said many federal programs should be "weeded out" but wasn't sure which should be weeded.

— He said "I don't know what is going on in Congress. I would have to get there to find out."

— He said he had no opinion on the Nixon transcripts of White House conversations because he hadn't read them.

"All I know is what I see on radio and TV," he said. He said he hadn't read any of the excerpts of the transcripts printed.

He said he earlier believed Nixon should not resign. "Now I don't know," he said.

Holve said his major priority would be to reduce defense spending and shift emphasis to domestic programs. He said he did not know which.

"I am a serious candidate," he said. He said his campaign "is picking up," although he hasn't yet raised much money.

FILER — Filer Grange had a no-host dinner honoring local school graduates Friday evening at the Filer Grange Hall.

Invocation at the potluck dinner was given by Rev. J. D. Crego of the Filer First Methodist Church.

The welcome was given by Grange master Everett Bonnichsen. A Chinese auction was conducted by the lecturer, Mrs. Everett Bonnichsen.

The home economics committee supervised the dinner, with tables decorated with spring flowers provided by Mrs. C. T. Thomas, decoration committee.

Already a hero

RUPERT — Encarnación García, 23, Rupert, is a new addition to the Rupert Police force and already a hero.

On his fourth day on the job, May 2, García saved the life of 3-year-old Nancy Blake. According to Police Chief Edward Culver, García was sent on a call about a stray dog when he saw Thomas Blake, the girl's father, signaling him to stop.

When he stopped the police car, Mrs. Blake ran out of the family home carrying the little girl who was not breathing. García revived the girl with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Fairfield plans sale at depot

FAIRFIELD — The Camas County Historical Society is planning a "depot" sale June 8 with old-fashioned rides for the kids and lots to eat.

Boubal Baldwin, chairman, says proceeds from the event to be held at the Fairfield depot will be used to move the depot building, which is planned for use as a museum, library and center for Boy Scouts and Senior Citizens.

The society must raise $5,000 for moving expenses and costs of foundation for the structure, she said. Since the entire population of Camas County is under 1,000 it will take the full effort of all responsible citizens of the county to raise these funds, she said.

Offered for sale will be furniture, used clothing, dishes, sewing machines, milk cans, old radios and stoves, along with grab bags for the curious and an arts and crafts bazaar.

Rides also are scheduled for the children, Mrs. Baldwin said, urging residents to "come."

TF GOP meet set Thursday

TWIN FALLS — Republican central committee members for Legislative District No. 25 will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the county judicial building to recommend candidates to fill the unexpired term of the late State Rep. Ray Lincoln.

Laird Noh, acting committee chairman, said three candidates will be recommended to the governor to fill the appointment. Rep. Lincoln died last week of a heart attack.

The county central committee will convene immediately upon conclusion of the legislative district meeting. All central committee members are urged to attend both meetings, Noh said, since a quorum is required by law.

The official also urged anyone interested in active participation in the Republican party to consider filing for the post of precinct committee person. Five signatures of registered voters are required on a petition for candidacy which can be obtained from the county clerk's office. The signed petition must be returned to the clerk's office by June 1.

Automobile damaged

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Mary Ann Bennett, Buhl, told Twin Falls city police someone caused an estimated $450 to her automobile Saturday night.

She said the 1969 small car was parked at the "Brand Lounge" on Blue Lakes Boulevard North parking lot between 10:30 p.m. Saturday and 12:30 a.m. Sunday at which time she discovered the windshield and one window glass broken out. All four tires had been cut, she said.

Mrs. John Wallace, 1212 Holly Drive, told officers someone broke out a section of cedar fence between their property and D.J.'s lounge on Blue Lakes Boulevard North Saturday night. She told officers several similar incidents have occurred in the past, especially on Friday or Saturday nights when there are a large number of vehicles and persons in the parking lot at the lounge.

Neglected cabinet hasn't sorted out loyalties

(c) N. Y. Times Service
WASHINGTON — The President's cabinet has been put in an awkward position by the impeachment inquiry in the Congress.
It is clear from their public statements that they have been neglected by the White House and that they have not yet sorted out their loyalties.
For example, Claude S. Brinegar, the President's transportation secretary, told the National Press Club he was "shocked, offended, and discouraged" by the Watergate "mess," but didn't want the President to resign.
On the same day, Secretary of Commerce Frederick B. Dent told an audience in Greensboro, N. C., the President's Watergate transcripts showed that the President was not guilty of any criminal act.
Meanwhile, senior members of the cabinet wrong, or that he has lost the confidence essential to win consent for his policies in the Congress or in the world.

Some key members of the cabinet may quit if the erosion of respect for the President's character and authority go on, but it has not reached that point yet. Kissinger is still able to mediate in the Middle East conflict. Secretary of Defense Schlesinger is still able to negotiate effectively with the Soviets on strategic arms control, and with the West Europeans.
But the White House cannot use cabinet members like Secretary of Commerce Dent as propagandists against impeachment without getting in deep trouble with other members of the cabinet. Anyway, Patrick Buchanan on the White House staff is much better at propaganda than Dent. When Pat defends the President but disarms the opposition by saying he didn't find the White House tapes "spiritually uplifting," who needs Dent?

But the way things are going here, the cabinet, even if it is weak and divided, cannot be ignored. If cabinet members stick to their jobs, as they probably should for the time being, but found that the President was going to fight it out to the last Senator, they could protect and probably bring the President down.
All this is vague and remote but it should not be discounted. For the position of the cabinet can be important. It could even be decisive, particularly if Kissinger felt he could no longer carry out his responsibilities to an impeached President.
But Nixon is not talking to his cabinet about this problem. He is assuming their loyalty to him, forgetting that unlike Ehrlichman and Haldeman, they may be driven in the crisis to consider a higher loyalty to the nation.

'Poor relation' balloting Tuesday

On Tuesday, Magic Valley residents go to the polls to elect school trustees.
Frequently school board elections are the "poor relation" among political contests, unless there is a major controversy of some nature creating specific interest in the balloting. The result is a ho-hum attitude among district patrons—a light vote, an indication of apparent disinterest in the makeup of the district's school board.
This is unfortunate, because school trustees in most districts are charged with the responsibility of operating what amounts to a large and complex business with a budget frequently in six or seven figures and which affects virtually every home in the community served.
Too often that is overlooked or forgotten, and the school district patron decides that the time which could be devoted to exercising the responsibility of casting a ballot might be better used in his own pursuits.
So we respectfully and strongly suggest that Magic Valley citizens take time on Tuesday to vote in their respective school district elections.

Smooth shift

The change in the high command of the West German newspaper has been so smooth and easy that it barely seems newsworthy. Yet indeed it is for precisely that reason.
The new political machinery of the German state is working, and working extremely well. Those who knew and worked with former Chancellor Willy Brandt respected him and were sad to hear that he was leaving. But those who know and have worked with his successor, Helmut Schmidt, think that the German people will now be led by a more modern mind and a more efficient administrative hand.
The essential fact is that the German political system provides for an orderly succession with the man at the top retiring, and has come up with an entirely satisfactory successor.
What we see here is a political system which was obviously well designed and is serving the needs of its own people and of the general community of nations — well. Within the span of two days it elected a new head of state, Walter Scheel, and a new head of government, Helmut Schmidt. It was all done routinely, with a minimum of strain, no hiatus in governmental operations and no partisan bitterness.
Today we take all this for granted but those old enough to remember Weimar Germany will recognize, as the new generation scarcely can, that what we are seeing here is what Germany's best thinkers and best friends dreamed hoped for but not confidently setting up in Germany after the war — a working democracy.
Back during the Hitler era the prospects seemed all but hopeless. But when the war was over those same best minds and best friends of Germany went to work. We see now the fruitage of that labor. The quality is excellent.

A Thought

A thought for the day: American author Ambrose Bierce said, "Marriage is a community consisting of a master, a mistress and two slaves, making it two in all."

GOP Senators stall Ash's flanking attack on energy

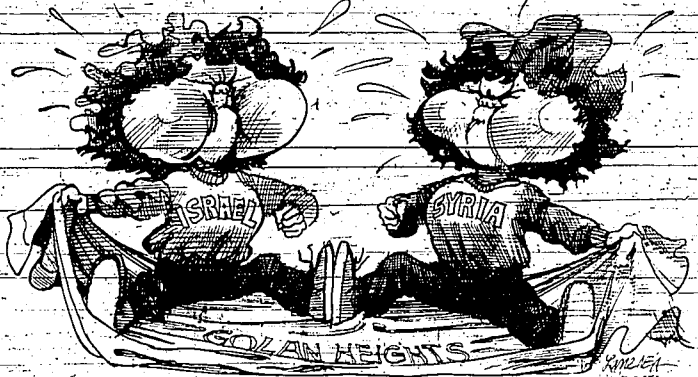

WASHINGTON — A flanking attack by Roy Ash, boss of the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), aimed at control of administration's energy policy, seems doomed because of six Republican members of the Senate Interior Committee.
The six Senators on April 9 wrote a letter to President Nixon, personally delivering it to White House chief of staff Alexander Haig. The letter virtually demanded that William Simon, energy czar before he became Secretary of the Treasury May 5, be named to head a new National Energy Council. Creation of the council is opposed by Ash, who wants to control months ahead, insulated by Capitol Hill support. Flamboyant and politically oriented, Simon would have been doomed in the Nixon-first term, but the requirements for survival have changed in Washington.

At this crucial point in time, the Senators wrote the President, "we feel that Bill Simon should retain a central role in the development of energy policy — Congress has grown to rely on Simon as a central figure in energy and we feel this leadership must be continued."
That, alluding to Nixon's delays in naming Simon to replace George Shultz, the letter stated "We anticipate that he will be nominated to be secretary of the treasury and we wholeheartedly support that nomination."

Nixon cannot ignore this power play because of impeachment politics. Five of the six are in Senate trial. They are Sens. Paul Fannin of Arizona, James McClure of Idaho, Dewey Bartlett of Oklahoma, Clifford Hansen of Wyoming and James Buckley of New York. The sixth is liberal Mark Hatfield of Oregon.
This effort, according to one of the Senators, is intended to circumvent Ash, who would automatically dominate federal energy matters from the White House if the council were not established. Behind it are two political factors — one personal, the other of importance to the Nixon White House. Ash watches his powers filter away in the impeachment battle.
The personal factor: Simon, as viewed by Congress, proved his capacity for hard decisions and his instinct to cooperate with winter, while Ash is regarded as remote, aloof and far more the President's own man.
The more important factor goes to the heart of impeachment politics, with both Simon and the Senators moving into the uncharted territory of keeping the government running while Nixon waits for his life. With presidential power waning, only strong alliances between departments and their Congressional allies can prevent a wholesale transfer of power from the administration to the Democratic-controlled Congress.

That explains the developing alliance between Simon and the six Republican Senators on control of energy policy. Simon is keeping his lines open to powerful Democrats such as Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, chairman of the Interior committee. But he is also courting his Republican allies to insulate his department during the impeachment battle. That is far more important today than being a court favorite in the Oval Office.

Breath Holding Contest

Social pressure appropriate even to final GASP

(c) N. Y. Times Service
WASHINGTON — Carmine De Sapio, boss of Tammany Hall a generation ago, abolished the smoke-filled room during his tenure as leader because his eyes were sensitive to smoke.
In that sense at least, De Sapio is regarded as a prophet without honor in his own time. A new organization fiercer and more self-righteous than the old Tiger of Tammany, The Group Against Smokey Pollution (GASP), is across the nation. GASP chapters have been formed to help abate the 52 million Americans smokers into refraining from indulging their habit in the "breathing space" of nonsmokers.
"Nonsmokers have rights too!" is the slogan of GASP and in its Liberation Guide — there are tips to members about methods of discomfit those who discomfit them. Some ideas are forthright — "Speak out against Smoking!" — while others are maddening, such as "Discourage smoking by not providing ashtrays."
So far, so good. In an enclosed space, people who are annoyed by tobacco smoke should make known their irritation to smokers, who should then have the courtesy to "desist." Unfortunately, that is not the last GASP.

Blatant by their success in getting airlines to segregate smokers, the nonsmokers are pressing their attack with demands for government regulation of "breathing space."
From Barry Goldwater's Arizona to George McGovern's South Dakota, states have passed laws prohibiting smoking in museums, concert halls, theaters, libraries and elevators.
This is a good example of the tyranny of the minority. A little group of willful persons, representing no opinion but their own, has rendered the great smoking public helpless and contemptible.
Where a fire or health hazard exists, nobody disputes that smoking should be prohibited. Yet the smoker continues to smoke; in the US last year, 588 billion cigarettes were smoked, smoked upon and choked upon and thanks to the growing interest in smoking by teenage girls, the market continues to grow.
This pervasiveness — the refusal of people to do what is good for them — activates the anti-smoking brigade. I think, even more than the annoyance caused by the regulations of the coffee-makers. If smokers do not respond to reason, to warnings, to the silencing of advertising, to tax disincentives, then perhaps the only way is to make it more difficult to find a place to light up.
You are not denying the smoker's right to smoke," GASP assures its members, "only his right to smoke in your breathing space." Not true; any harassment, especially harassment by regulation, is part of a process that infringes our liberties and pollutes our statute books.

The lesson of the do-gooder is intolerable, even when he/she (fight linguistic pollution!) cloaks paternalism in the guise of selfishness. Such not government, pressure is appropriate to curb the smoker. A glare, a sniff, and if necessary the green-glazed appearance of the onset of motion sickness, is enough to get most smokers to subvert a built-in habit.
But the abuse of the power to safeguard health or put a governmental straitjacket on the glove of social courtesies is worrisome. A new law separating smoking from nonsmoking areas in restaurants would invite a smoker's sit-in at a nonsmoking lunch counter, turning the civil rights clock back by decades.
In their zeal, the people from GASP have gone too far; we can now look forward to the formation of "People United To Fight For Freedom by Fighting Fire With Fire" (PUFFFFF).

Challenges have value

Is there a greater joy on earth than the 19-year-old who sees things as they are, writes about them with the quiet authority of a professional, and seasons his commentary with the wit and urbane of the humanist?
The following came in as a letter from a sophomore at Yale University. I commend it to all who despair of American youth, and the author, Richard Brookhiser, to editors looking for writers from the Class of '87.
How glad I was to see you pin the liberal label on Shockey. When I first started thinking of Shockey as a liberal, it seemed like little more than a clever and infuriating paradox; but now I'm convinced there's nothing purblind about it. Let Shockey speak for himself: "The voting citizens of the United States can and should endeavor to make their government... formulate programs so that every baby born has high probability of leading a dignified, rewarding, and satisfying life." (This was one of his passages.)
The debate itself (at Yale University) was a dream. I ate with the contestants beforehand at Mory's. I wondered what Shockey thought of the black waiter: wondered, a little guiltily, what I thought of the black waiter, then dashed over to the auditorium and snuck in a side door. The next hour and a half was just like a high school basketball game with one side, no game, and only the refs to boo. About 40 minutes into it, people started appearing in the windows.
My conservative friend paced anxiously back and forth, conferred with the moderator, made blistering statements to the press. Some of the liberals got pretty blistered too. One guy (I heard he was a Vietnam Veteran Against the War), got up and began saying have as much disrespect for this crowd as I do for Shockey!" It was no use; he couldn't be heard beyond the first row.

The Party for Workers' Power, or some other comic opera organization, had a huge banner hanging from the balcony. One kid jumped through the windows and was promptly hustled off.
At this point, the university called it off. The campus police hustled the "speakers" off the stage. Greg Hyatt, the moderator and a good friend, waved at the crowd. They stuck around for about 16 minutes, as most crowds at basketball games do, ripping down the other team's posters.
Someone got up on a chair and said they should make sure Shockey leaves Yale — as though we were going to hide him — and then unleash him in the Swiss Room at three o'clock in the morning. Outside, an American truck had parked in front of Woolley Hall and was making a killing. Capitalism, at least, was alive and well. I learned that the Young Christian Fellowship had been out too, singing hymns. "Whose side were they on?" Someone shrugged. "God's."
It feels bad, not the least because we had to do it for Shockey. It is not pleasant defending the rights of those whose ideas you condemn and abhor. I felt apalled; I thought YAF. (Young Americans for Freedom) was apalled; I thought

EPA drops nuclear power probe plans

(c) N. Y. Times Service
WASHINGTON — Under pressure from a key Congressman and the Office of Management and Budget, the Environmental Protection Agency has dropped a plan to commission independent research into a controversial nuclear power program.

On April 29, the agency invited proposals for an $85,000 analysis of costs and benefits associated with certain aspects of the proposed breeder reactor.

Such a study, sources close to the agency said, would have strengthened the agency's standing as a critic of the breeder development program, to which President Nixon and the Atomic Energy Commission assign high priority.

The EPA canceled the proposed research on May 9 after getting adverse reaction from Rep. Charles W. Colson, the commission and the Office of Management and Budget. The budget office was authoritatively depicted as having mixed feelings in the matter because officials there are fearful that the breeder program will be far more costly than planned.

John D. Quarles, deputy administrator of EPA, confirmed this was the sequence of events and that the agency received "quite a number of calls." Hollifield, a long-time champion of nuclear power, and James J. Tozzi, the budget office examiner for EPA, also confirmed their intervention.

Quarles said the issue raised was whether it was an appropriate use of EPA funds to hire outside experts to evaluate another agency's program.

Environmentalists inside and outside the agency assert that this was only a formal issue, and that the real reason for the intervention was to insulate the breeder reactor program from federal-agency criticism and broadly-based debate. The breeder, which produces new nuclear fuel while it generates electric power, has come under attack from some environmentalists on a variety of grounds.

Only two weeks ago, the EPA rated as "inadequate" the Atomic Energy Commission's draft environmental-impact statement on the breeder development program. The commission, in conjunction with the electric utility industry, has designated the breeder as the principal source of incremental electric power supplies in the 1990's.

GOP strategists favor procedure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two Republicans in charge of GOP campaign strategy this year agree that President Nixon should not resign, even though party congressional candidates face tough races in November.

National party chairman George Bush, admitting that Watergate helped Democrats win four Republican congressional seats in special elections this year, disagrees with Nixon that his fate and that of the party are inseparable.

In a joint broadcast interview Sunday (NBC's Meet the Press), Sen. William Brock, R-Tenn., and Rep. Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., agreed that the constitutional impeachment process is better than a Nixon resignation.

Brock and Michel are GOP campaign committee chairmen in their respective houses.

"It would do untold damage to our constitutional system over the long haul," said Brock, if Nixon were forced to resign and later proven innocent of any wrongdoing.

Rep. Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., said he was "unalterably opposed" to resignation because "we have a regular constitutional process in the whole system, then we ought to abide by this normal constitutional process."

"In another interview (ABC's Issues and Answers), Bush was asked about the political effects of Watergate on the recent special congressional elections. He replied: 'I think it has hurt us this year.'

"I could make a very good case last year that (Watergate) wasn't being hit," he said. "This year, we've lost four out of five special elections and I think it's fair to say that an inefficient in those was Watergate."

But next November, he said, "it's not going to be enough to hammer away at Watergate and be elected."

Referring to a recent statement by presidential aide Dean Burch that the fortunes of the President and the party "are as one," Bush said they are "not that closely linked."

"You're saying then," he was asked, "that the fate of the party this fall and beyond is not tied to that of the President?"

Differs

REPUBLICAN National Chairman George Bush said Sunday "Watergate" helped Democrats win four special Congressional elections but disputed a White House statement that the fate of the President Nixon and the GOP are inseparable. Bush spoke in a national television interview (UPI).

Congress opens fight on defense

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Major battles are expected on the House floor today as Congress begins debate on the biggest peace-time defense budget in U.S. military history.

The record $91.33 billion budget came through the House Armed Services Committee relatively intact this spring, but even Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger admitted last March that the budget asks about $6 billion more than the military actually needs.

House members, including conservatives, were visibly upset by Schlesinger's statement and may try to make wholesale cuts in 1975 defense appropriations.

The issues most likely to provoke floor fights are military aid to South Vietnam, proposed reductions in U.S. troop strength and money for the controversial B1 supersonic bomber.

'Plumber' direction arguments slated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A court will hear arguments this week on whether President Nixon's order to Charles W. Colson — "do whatever has to be done to stop those leaks" — included permission to break into the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

U.S. District Court Judge Gerhard A. Gesell has scheduled four days of pre-trial arguments, starting today, on whether "national security" overrode the constitutional protection from unauthorized search and seizure.

The question is legally significant, because the government must prove intent to commit a crime; the conspiracy defendants contend they were simply, though perhaps overzealously, following presidential instructions in a national security matter.

John D. Ehrlichman, once Nixon's No. 2 man; Colson, a former Nixon consultant; and Gordon Liddy, a former White House aide — all linked with the White House "plumbers" — were indicted March 7 along with Bernard L. Barker, Felipe De Diego and Eugenio Martinez.

They were accused of conspiracy to violate the civil rights of Dr. Lewis J. Fielding, who treated Ellsberg, the man who said he gave reporters the secret Pentagon Papers on the Vietnam war.

Colson argued last month that "national security" considerations were of concern to the defendants at the time of the Fielding break-in. He quoted Nixon as telling him several times in June and July 1971, "in effect, 'I don't give a damn how it is done, do whatever has to be done to stop these leaks.'"

Special prosecutor Leon Jaworski said Friday that even though they claimed a general mandate to investigate leaks, "not one of the defendants has attempted to contradict the President's assertion that he had no prior knowledge of the break-in."

Gesell told lawyers April 19 that he wanted "to try to nail down ... whether or not the President exercised his authority, if he has it — and my assumption at this point is that he does in the field of foreign affairs — to direct an investigation in disregard of the Fourth Amendment."

Minnesota, California and North Carolina are the nation's leading turkey producers.

Depletion vote likely

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House vote is expected sometime this week on legislation to end one of the oil industry's biggest tax breaks, the 22 percent oil depletion allowance.

The House will consider an oil and gas energy tax bill drafted by the Ways and Means Committee later this week. The measure would phase out the depletion allowance gradually, requiring all oil industry profits subject to taxation in three years.

Experts estimate the bill would cost the companies an additional $12.9 billion over the next six years.

Minister French victor

VALÉRY GISCARD D'ESTAING
wins victory cheers

(C) New York Times Service
PARIS — Finance Minister Valéry Giscard d'Estaing won today's French presidential election, turning back a concerted challenge by the left.

Socialist leader François Mitterrand, who had Communist backing, came within about 1.5 per cent of being the victor in an extraordinarily close, hard-fought race.

At 11 p.m. Paris time, Giscard d'Estaing claimed victory in a televised speech promising "A new era of French politics, rejuvenation and change for France."

"You want change, politically, economically and socially," he told French voters. "You won't be disappointed."

Calm, self-confident and poised, as he was through most of the campaign, Giscard d'Estaing then repeated his statement in English for foreign television. In his own translation, he offered "my cordial congratulations to my unlucky competitor. At this point, he was cut off French television."

Official ministry of interior returns at the time he spoke showed him winning 50.70 per cent of the vote against 49.30 per cent for Mitterrand, with less than one-tenth of the ballots still to be counted. But projections showed a slightly narrower margin.

Giscard d'Estaing took note of the tightness of the race which had been compared here with the Nixon-Kennedy battle of 1960.

"Of course, one could have imagined a larger margin," he said, "but what matters is decision and responsibility. You have made the decision. I will exercise the responsibility."

The implication was that like President Kennedy 14 years ago, Giscard d'Estaing intended to "put aside the narrowness of the verdict and govern with a full sense of being his country's choice."

His decision, four days after the succession of Finance Minister Helmut Schmidt to leadership of West Germany's chancellery, was expected to bring a new momentum to the search for European unity, focused especially on Franco-German collaboration. The two men know each other well and are said to get along well.

RANDOLPH HEARST

Developments stun Hearst

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (UPI) — Randolph A. Hearst sat in stunned silence Sunday night when he learned his kidnapped daughter, Patricia, 20, would be charged with violation of federal laws prohibiting possession and use of automatic weapons.

A family spokesman, John Lester, said after hearing the news Hearst "sat just in a chair and remained very quiet for a long period of time."

"He's taking it very hard, very hard," Lester said, "this whole thing, 105 days now, it has so many twists it's difficult to predict what's going to happen next."

"He said the Hearsts 'are aware that the unexpected is usually the expected,'" Mrs. Hearst, Lester said, was greatly relieved that her daughter's body was not among the six removed from the charred Symbionese Liberation Army hideout in Los Angeles.

"But again, considering the events that occurred and considering that her daughter's not back here, she's still a little apprehensive and he likewise," he said.

Earlier, Hearst, editor and president of the San Francisco Examiner, said he approved of the police tactics in trying to rout the SLA terrorists from their hideout Friday.

"They tried to get people out and they tried to use tear gas," he said, "and they evidently were in with a tremendous hail of fire."

"Once those things started, there's no controlling them. I don't really see what else they could have done. I think it was just a miracle that nobody else was hurt."

In the first weeks after the kidnapping Feb. 4, Hearst repeatedly said publicly that the FBI should not be allowed to use "in-with-guns-blazing" if they found his daughter. But his tone changed after he spent $2 million on a free food program demanded by the kidnapers, only to be told he would not get his daughter back unless he spent more.

Then came the shock of an SLA tape recording containing the voice of Miss Hearst's denouncing her father and saying she would "stay and fight" with her abductors.

Victim's father sorts reasons

LINCOLNWOOD, Ill. (UPI) — The Rev. George P. Hall, father of Camilla Hall, 29, the sixth victim of Friday's gunbattle between police and the Symbionese Liberation Army, Judge Barrington D. Parker to hear his decision on a request by Reinecke for dismissal of perjury charges against him.

Parker also was expected to rule on another request by Reinecke that his trial, which has been tentatively set for July 16, be moved to California.

Reinecke, a Republican candidate for governor in California's June 4 primary, is charged with lying before the Senate Judiciary Committee. His testimony was on conversations he had with former which burst into flames during the Friday night shootout.

"They were both dedicated persons," Hall said. "They loved America a great deal. I think what they were doing was trying to say 'America, wake up.' They were interested in all issues—equality, the care of the land, the food that we eat, pollution of the air, women's rights, peace."

"Every social issue that was raised, they were fighting for. It probably had come to the point where they felt something dramatic had to be done," Hall said.

Judge ruling set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Special Watergate prosecutors and lawyers for Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke of California have been asked to appear today before U.S. District Court Judge Barrington D. Parker to hear his decision on a request by Reinecke for dismissal of perjury charges against him.

Parker also was expected to rule on another request by Reinecke that his trial, which has been tentatively set for July 16, be moved to California.

Reinecke, a Republican candidate for governor in California's June 4 primary, is charged with lying before the Senate Judiciary Committee. His testimony was on conversations he had with former

London security checks tighten

LONDON (UPI) — Scotland Yard officials ordered stepped-up security checks of government offices, mail deliveries and other likely targets today to head off a feared new wave of bombing. In the capital, a suspected Irish Republican Army (IRA) car bomb exploded Sunday in a Heathrow International airport parking lot hospitalizing two persons, sowing panic among travelers, and "closing the airport for nearly five hours."

Twelve hours later, police found and defused a car bomb planted in a government-owned building in South London.

The bombs were the third and sixth planted in England by suspected IRA activists since mid-December. Most of the blasts, which have killed 12 persons and injured 14 others, came in the London area.

Scotland Yard officials said they feared the bombs heralded a renewal of the campaign.

They ordered extra police patrols on to the streets today to check for suspected car bombs, and warned office workers and others to watch out for suspicious mail—that could be letter bombs.

They said additional checks were ordered on government buildings in the Whitehall area which includes Parliament and Prime Minister Harold Wilson's official residence.

The 100 pound Heathrow bomb, described by police as one of the biggest to date, blasted a three-story parking lot near the terminal for flights to Europe and the two Irishlands.

It set off fires in the gasoline tanks of two other cars, and terrified thousands of passengers.

A caller, with an Irish accent, tipped a local news agency shortly before the Heathrow bomb went off.

Families of MIAs receive payments

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Families of men listed as missing in Indochina get an average of $400 a week as long as the fate of the unaccounted for servicemen remains unknown.

His legal status as "alive" is of little consolation to most survivors. But according to Pentagon and congressional sources, some families are more interested in keeping the Defense Department payments than learning the fate of their men.

Pentagon sources have told UPI a few of the relatives have admitted they know their men are dead but will fight to keep them on missing status because they "need" the money. The salaries stop when a missing man is declared dead.

The sources said at least two wives of missing servicemen were "hoping" to avoid official death declarations long enough for their missing husbands to serve 20 years on the military rolls and qualify for a lifelong dependent pension of at least $3,300 a year.

"One wife told me she knew her husband was dead but she wanted the money," a High ranking Pentagon officer said. "I don't blame her for that. She feels the chances of remarrying with four or five kids are pretty slim."

But he became angry discussing some other dependent families.

"They've got fringe benefits and an elite status that the families of guys who were just flat out killed over there never enjoyed," he said.

"The Pentagon will not say how much any one dependent family is receiving. But the average salary paid is about $400 a week. More than $2 million is paid to the $1,070 families each month."

At least 10 per cent of each paycheck is automatically deposited in a military savings account earning 10 per cent interest.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for saying that belly dancing is a respected art form. You're absolutely right. It's also a marvelous exercise for toning up the muscles and trimming off fat.

In our little town of Ashland, Ky. (population 20,000) 50 of us women (mostly senior citizens) are taking lessons in belly dancing at the YWCA. And we're considered part of the Bible belt!

ANITA HOWERTON

DEAR ANITA: Since belly dancing originated in the Middle East during Biblical times, it's entirely appropriate that it should be taught in the Bible belt.

Belly dancing good exercise

Let's hear it from Suzanne Hunsacker, a reporter from the Coloradoan in Fort Collins, Colo. She visited a belly dancing class sponsored by the Parks and Recreation Department because belly dancing had become a gut issue in that community, and she wanted to get the straight dope. She wrote:

"One middle-aged student said, 'There's nothing sexy about it. Anybody watching us sweat it out would hardly get around.' It's an exhausting physical exercise. At first it nearly killed me. I started using parts I never knew I had. However, soon I got to know my body and began talking to my joints."

"The instructor said, 'I notice a real change in the women taking the class. They become much freer in their movements after a while. When they dance, they lift up their heads and smile.'"

"She knows," wrote the reporter, "with inhibitions being shed and bellies being strengthened, Fort Collins may someday be the belly dancing capital of the West."

Wait. There's more: From New Orleans came a feature story published in the States—item by Rosemary Ruiz, a reporter who actually joined a belly dancing class in order to get some firsthand information about it. She wrote:

"Until now, belly dancing has always had a certain seedy aura about it, seldom suggesting anything more refined than a carnival hokey koochy dance, but lately the dance has enjoyed a surge of popularity. I got my best friend and my sister-in-law to enroll with me. We were relieved to see ourselves duplicated in the other students, ordinary coeds and housewives ranging in age from 16 to 55. All quite sheepish about it."

"My daughter thinks it's hilarious," said one.

"I told my husband I was taking ballet," says another.

"My husband is a school principal," said Lucille M., "so I'm furthering my education." She laughs, but comes back in five minutes to add quite soberly. "Actually, I also own Arabian horses and am very interested in the Arabic culture. Please, but that in."

"The instructor, Habana, whose real name is not Habana, but whose real measurements are (36-35) said, 'People put belly dancing in the same category as stripping. It isn't. Stripping is artless and vulgar belly dancing is an ancient art. There are many reasons why women take belly dancing lessons, but most of them want to lose weight."

Oswald: "Bad players tend to give themselves no chance to bring home a doubtful contract. A fair player usually finds a way that may succeed, while really good players give themselves every chance."

Jim: "South was a fair player. He watched his opponents start with three rounds of diamonds. West ruffed the third lead and shifted to a club. South led a trump to his ace and a second trump back to dummy's queen. Then he tried the heart finesse. If it had worked he would have been able to ruff his last heart in dummy, but it failed and he was down one."

Oswald: "It was tough luck but an expert would have given himself an extra chance and made the hand. He would have led a trump to his ace just as South had done, but then he would play out his last diamond. West would not have been able to ruff and a low heart would have been discarded from dummy. After that start South would cash his ace of hearts and ruff his last two hearts in dummy. Jim: "The extra chance was that West had started with just two trumps. If West held a third trump, he would ruff dummy would overruff and South could then try the heart finesse. He would still be down one because there had been no way to make the contract."

which can't be done by belly dancing alone, so the real motive usually lies somewhere else."

I'll buy that.

DEAR ABBY: We in the dancing profession commend you for upholding the dignity of belly dancing. It's the name that so many people find offensive. The dance is beautiful when artistically performed. I wish they would change the name to "Oriental dancing."

If you think it's easy—like the hula, just try to move the upper half of your body while keeping the lower half perfectly still. Then try to move the lower half of your body and keep the upper half still.

I'll bet you can't do it.

Look at it this way.

The cost of building, or buying, a new home will not be going down in the foreseeable future... if ever. Materials, labor and land costs will probably continue to increase.

Interest rates will fluctuate from now until the end of time. No one is in a position to guarantee just what will happen in the next ten or twenty years.

One thing is fairly certain, however.

Your equity value in a home will increase with time. Buying a home is a good investment today... and will be tomorrow.

We do more than make a loan. We see to it that home and home owner are matched. That's our job, too.

In the final analysis, a home loan is a people loan.

How to beat the heat

... blow it away with an

ATTIC FAN

Reducing hot-air buildup in the attic can help keep heat down in your home's entire living area; even if you don't have an air conditioning system. If your home is air conditioned already, an automatic attic fan can reduce the load on the air conditioner and increase the energy efficiency of your entire cooling system.

While it helps solve your home's cooling problems, an attic fan also can protect your attic and roof against deterioration caused by excess heat or moisture.

Your family should sleep better, rest better and feel better with the cooling effect of an attic fan.

BOISE (UPI) — Larry Barnes Chevrolet, Boise, has been found guilty of unfair labor practices by a federal judge who ordered the firm to cease discharging "or otherwise discriminating against" employees for engaging in union activities.

William L. Killian, a truck salesman for the firm, was fired Nov. 23 following alleged attempts to organize other salesmen as members of the Retail Clerk's Union of the AFL-CIO.

Burley men arrested

BURLEY — Three Burley men were arrested Saturday night for possession of a controlled substance.

Lyle J. Woodbury, Reed E. Waterson and John W. Polvican, all 19, all Burley, were arrested Saturday night by Burley police when they were stopped for a possible curfew violation. Officers said they asked the men to step out of the car because they had open cans of beer. The driver allegedly tried to conceal a pouch found to contain marijuana. The substances which are being analyzed, according to Police Chief Gary Booth.

The three have not been arraigned yet.

Newspaper calls for action

LEWISTON, Idaho (UPI) — In a Sunday editorial, the Lewiston Morning Tribune said calls for resignation of President Nixon are "premature" but that it was time for the House to act upon impeachment.

The editorial said House members "now hesitating because they say they still doubt the president's guilt are leap frogging past their own duties to those of the Senate."

"The Senate determines guilt. The only question the House members are being asked is whether they believe there are enough indications of possible guilt for sending the matter to the Senate. How many indications do they require?"

Grain growers set meet

BURLEY — All Magic Valley grain growers are invited to attend a meeting at the Ponderosa Inn, Burley, Wednesday night.

The meeting will begin at 8:30 p.m. in the conference room. All growers interested in retaining a better price for wheat and barley this fall are urged to attend.

A regional representative of the National Farmers Organization will discuss present price trends, according to Ralph Maughan, president of the Minidoka NFU.

Passenger not Patricia

BOISE (UPI) — Authorities have ruled out the possibility that missing heiress Patricia Hearst was a passenger in a tan Volkswagen spotted in Fruitland, Idaho.

A spokesman for the Butte, Mont. FBI bureau said that the car was located near Glacier National Park, Mont. Sunday, and the occupant said to match the description of Miss Hearst was not the missing heiress.

The Idaho State Police said that three persons entered a store in Fruitland Saturday and that two customers and a clerk said that one of them looked like Patricia Hearst.

HAILEY — Jess Castle, a two-and-one-half year old cerebral palsy victim, may be able to start public school at a normal age.

Jess is one of several children in the Blaine County area who receives therapy through the Department of Environmental and Community Services (DECS) home improvement program.

The program is designed to reach children with physical or emotional problems before they enter school and to raise their ability level as quickly and as high as possible, before a psychology of dependence sets in.

Home program

Beth Gorringer, the DECS home improvement counselor in the Hailey area, each week travels to Pibaco, Carey, Bellevue and other areas to work directly in a home setting with the children and their parents.

Her tools are puzzles, toys, story books, paper and pencils.

Ms. Gorringer visits children who for any reason have a developmental lag. Most of the children suffer from physical or mental defects incurred at birth, but some suffer from emotional illness brought on by environmental and social conditions.

The DECS program is designed to help children up to six years of age.

Once a month a psychiatrist and several counselors such as Ms. Gorringer meet in Twin Falls. They discuss the cases and receive suggestions on continuing home therapy.

Back in the field, the counselors discuss the therapy suggestions with parents and attempt to put them into operation in the home with the parents' participation.

"It's discouraging sometimes," Ms. Gorringer said. "You have to like this type of work to stay with it."

Progress is slow, she said, often seeming to come to a halt with some children.

She works with children who may be severely retarded or who may have a high IQ but suffer from physical defects which have delayed their learning capabilities.

One girl Ms. Gorringer worked with was born deaf. After surgery the child could hear and through this program Ms. Gorringer hopes to correct the learning lag so the child can catch up with her peers.

The service to the children is free. The problem is locating the children who need help.

All of the children are referred to DECS. It's up to Ms. Gorringer to approach the family and offer the service. She now works with eight children each week.

Jess Castle is one of the children.

Jim and Pat Castle were told after six months that their son had been born with cerebral palsy. They notified Ms. Gorringer and the stimulation therapy began.

Jess is a bright-eyed, alert boy. He knows how to get his way with his sisters and his mom. His problem is a physical one.

He naturally holds his fists tight, his feet curve inward and his body is rigid.

Jim and Pat were told by one doctor Jess would be a dependant all his life, but, working with therapists, they began to attempt to improve his body control.

Every day Mrs. Castle massages his body from the tip of his toes to the top of his scalp. The procedure takes over an hour.

Once a week Beth Gorringer works with Jess to stimulate his mental and physical capabilities.

Jess is set up straight in a high chair. His fingers are pressed open and a rattle ring is stuck in his palm. A firm hand is clasped over his hand and begins moving the arm up and down over a paper.

The tendency with cerebral palsy according to Ms. Gorringer is to keep the body horizontal. She moves his hand vertically over the paper until Jess begins marking up and down himself.

When he tires drawing, a square block is placed in his hand. He is shown repeatedly the shape of the block and is helped to move his fingers over the wood.

Then the stories come. Jess grins at the pictures of cats, horses and rabbits. He tries to say a few words and can manage some.

When the session is done his mother is left with suggestions on how to continue with the program.

One doctor after viewing Jess' improvement over the two years now believes he may have a chance to start school with normal youngsters.

Beth Gorringer thinks he has a chance too. The program has helped other children, she said, to catch up. It Jess can overcome some of his physical disability he may be able to start school and enjoy a normal childhood.

Bald Mountain problems include traffic, sewage

By HART QUESNELL
Times-News Writer

KETCHUM — A U.S. Forest Service environmental analysis report says increased traffic, sewage and overcrowded schools here are probably related to Bald Mountain development.

The report was prepared by Larry J. (Butch) Harper, Ketchum ranger station, and other forest service officials. It says the Ketchum-Sun Valley Elkhorn area is the fastest growing area in Idaho.

Development of the Wood River-Valley has accelerated and is partly related to Bald Mountain development, according to the report.

Construction in the flood plain and avalanche zones has added to the development problem, the report said.

The report is an effort by the forest service to explain environmental considerations in a proposed Sun-Valley Co. development plan.

Harper said Ed Fournier, area Forest Service supervisor, would probably sign the plan in the next two weeks. He said approval would probably be given for all proposed development inside the pending permit area leased from the forest service and Bureau of Land Management.

The report says the area where the plan is being developed within five to ten years. It is conceivable 10 to 15,000 people could be accommodated under the plan, according to the report.

The attempt to develop proposals on Bald Mountain came from three alternatives.

1. Allow no development — this would cause congestion of ski runs and make for a deterioration in skiing quality. It is quite possible an upper limit would have to be established, the report said.

2. Limited development — this would lead to the same situation as the first alternative.

3. Develop to the full capacity — This would create skiing for many more people. It would be necessary to expand the permit area and require filling of an environmental statement.

The present permit area held by Sun Valley Co. contains 3,348 acres — almost a national — resource land. Established in 1939, the Bald Mountain ski area now includes ten chair lifts, one poma lift, over 50 ski runs, three rest areas, a ski patrol building and other related improvements, according to the report.

From the proposals now under consideration facilities could include an additional seven ski lifts, 15 major ski runs, rest areas, sewage disposal units, and power and communications.

The report reports a central conflict — "It continues to provide quality skiing additional improvements must be made or an upper limit set."

Harper said the forest service would have to make that decision in the next few years based on area resident responses.

The report listed several environmental findings. Development of the mountain has not resulted in a loss of water quality, according to the report. There is only one spring on Bald Mountain.

Removal of tree cover has produced some striking contrasts to what would be a full timbered slope, the report said. It went on to report that development of Bald Mountain has not significantly reduced timber to a great degree. It is possible summer construction has affected normal summer movement of elk and deer.

The report stated Bald Mountain has no present or future wilderness values.

Two new road locations have been proposed in the plan and it is possible one of them may improve the present road system, according to the report.

The report is not an environmental statement, Harper said. The plan is in current permit land and as such will not require an environmental statement.

Land gift on meet agenda

HAILEY — A proposed 2,000-acre gift to the county will be considered Tuesday night by the Blaine County Planning and Zoning Commission.

John Coppes, Hailey, has offered to turn over the Indian Creek Ranch, north of Hailey, in exchange for subdivision rights on about 310 acres nearby.

Coppes has suggested the county convert the ranch into park and preserve it. Originally he offered the ranch to the Hailey City Council but withdrew his offer after receiving little encouragement from council members.

The county commissioners reviewed the request last week but said more time is needed for consideration. Coppes suggested last week that the commissioners "agree to change the rules a little for the unique situation."

His proposal calls for residential development on about the edge of the ranch. He insists that a decision be made rapidly.

Basile Hois, assistant administrator of the county Planning and Zoning commission, said only the park acquisition and related problems would be discussed.

"There are too many people ahead of Coppes' wishing planning and zoning considerations of this subdivision to give him special consideration," she said.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the county planning and zoning office. Other business to be reviewed includes office procedures, developments rights concept, ordinance revisions and commission membership.

a three mill special maintenance and operation levy for one year. The three mill levy is required to hire extra teachers for the first and second grades.

Church sees odds turning toward impeachment

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — The odds are turning towards impeachment of President Nixon, according to Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho.

"Today I would have to guess that the odds are in favor of a majority in the House voting for the impeachment resolution," Church said, Friday in an interview. Such a resolution by the House Judiciary Committee "seems to be anticipated," he said.

At the beginning of the year Church predicted Nixon would not be impeached. "But since then the President's position has deteriorated with the finding that he owed nearly half a million in back taxes plus the damaging effect of the publication of the transcripts," he said.

Church said the transcripts were "degrading to the presidency and devoid of moral values." But as a potential juror the Senator said he has "tried to avoid prejudging President" as to his guilt or innocence in Watergate, the cover-up and other scandals.

The constitution gives the House full powers in matters of impeachment, Church said. He said Nixon's position of withholding evidence "unprecedented." He said the House Judiciary Committee should insist on obtaining the actual tapes rather than just the transcripts.

"I think the committee's position is perfectly proper. The tapes alone would be acceptable evidence in any court, certainly not an edited transcript (furnished by the White House)," he said.

More laws, Church believes, will not prevent future Watergates. He listed numerous acknowledged crimes associated with the scandal and said, "I simply don't hold that all of these sins can be avoided in the future by simply strengthening the law. . . . It wasn't the lack of law, it was the men who chose to ignore and break the law who were responsible."

Still, Church called for stricter campaign financing laws. He said he supports a Senate bill placing a $3,000 contribution limit from any individual and even if it does not pass he plans to stick to his positions.

Church said he introduced an amendment to the Senate's current campaign reform bill to require full disclosure of federal candidates' income and assets.

Money from the tax check-off on the income tax forms has greatly increased this year and will be sufficient to fund federal funding for the Presidential elections, he said.

Inflation, Church said, is the most serious economic problem the nation faces and one that is worsening.

While the inflation rate was 1.5 per cent on the average during the Kennedy years, three per cent during the Johnson and six per cent during Nixon's first term, it now stands between 12 and 14 per cent, he said.

Price controls are not a feasible answer now because of the high public disillusionment with Phases I, II, III and IV, he said.

TF youth, 18, listed 'fair'

TWIN FALLS — Randy Haynes, 18, Twin Falls, was listed in Fair condition this morning in Magic Valley Memorial Hospital following a traffic accident Sunday.

Hospital officials said the youth suffered a fractured back and was one of four young people brought in for treatment about 1 a.m. Sunday. Driver of the vehicle, Ronnie Taylor, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Taylor, Twin Falls, was treated for face cuts and released. Others treated included Vicki Maughan, 17, Twin Falls, head lacerations and Jerinne Taylor, 16, Twin Falls, minor cuts and bruises.

With the exception of Haynes, all were treated and released. The accident reportedly occurred between Twin Falls and Filer shortly before 1 a.m. Sunday.

"I don't know of anyone who has a solution. But I do think the government ought to end the deficit spending," Church said.

He said the Congress and the President both have played their part in the failure to balance the budget.

But, he added that under this republican President ever budget submitted has been from $15 to $20 billion in the red. And in the past five years Congress has trimmed $4 billion to $5 billion from each Presidential budget.

"We are not going to get a balanced budget until we get a President who submits one," he said.

Church cited bonanza profits by major American oil companies as another cause of inflation. Americans are paying 30 billion dollars more now to satisfy all their petroleum needs than they were 15 months ago, he said.

"Hijacked prices" by the Arab governments do not account for all of this increase.

In 1974 the combined profits of the five major American oil companies amounted to $3.7 billion after taxes. This year the after tax profits of the same companies are expected to exceed $3 billion, he said.

Congress, Church said, tried to deal with this situation by rolling back gas prices. But this means is now closed since it was vetoed by the President. The alternative now is to impose a windfall profit tax on the big oil companies, he said.

Cleveland sweeps pair over Detroit

By United Press International
Two-run homers by Jack Brohamer and Buddy Bell and the pitching of Gaylord Perry and Bob Johnson Sunday enabled the Cleveland Indians to sweep a doubleheader from the Detroit Tigers, 2-1 and 4-1. Brohamer's first homer and Perry's two-hit pitching helped Cleveland lead the first game victory while Bell's fifth homer of the year backed Johnson's second victory in the nightcap.

The Indians spotted the Tigers a 2-1 lead in the third inning of the second game then bounced back with another run in the third to chase loser Bill Slayback with a four-run fourth inning. Bell drilled his homer off reliever Chuck Seelbach in the fifth. Slayback is now 1-2. Perry, who has six straight victories since opening day, struck out 11 and walked four batters as the Indians snapped a three-game losing streak in the opener. Gary Sutherland's first inning single and another by pinch-hitter Gates Brown in the eighth were the only hits off the big right-hander. In other American League games, Boston swept a doubleheader from Baltimore, 6-4 and 1-0. Milwaukee dented New York 3-1 in the second game after losing 6-1 in the opener. Oakland whipped Chicago 8-3. Texas capped Kansas City 8-3 and California nipped Minnesota 4-2 then lost 4-2.

Walk and throwing error help Padres gain split with Giants

By United Press International
Bobby Tolan walked to force the tie-breaking run and a throwing error by Steve Ontiveros helped San Diego to two more runs in the 12th inning Sunday for a 10-7 victory over San Francisco in the nightcap after the Giants won the opener 8-0 on a six-hit by St. Padre Mike Caldwell.

Jim Willoughby, the fifth of six San Francisco pitchers, walked John Grubb and Fred Kendall in the 12th and an infield single by Rich Morales loaded the bases. Pinch-hitter Rod Gaspar struck out and Willoughby was replaced by Ron Bryant, who walked Tolan to chase home the go-ahead run. Ontiveros threw a three-pitching error, but he grounded to third, allowing two more runs to score. In the opener, Bonds and Ed Goodson each drove in three runs, helping Caldwell to his seventh victory in eight decisions.

ISU drops Gonzaga 6-4 in loop playoff

POCATELLO (UPI) — Idaho State jumped on a relief pitcher fresh out of the bullpen Sunday, beating the first two pitchers (or five) and winning a 6-4 win over Gonzaga in the first game of the Big Sky Conference title series.

Big Sky southern division champion, ISU, hosts northern division champion Gonzaga again Monday in the second, and possibly third, game of the best-of-three series. Gonzaga forged ahead in the eighth inning of Sunday's game with three hits on only one hit — a double by Julio Delgado. In their half of the eighth, the Bengals had loaded the bases with two out when Gonzaga pulled starting pitcher Mike Davesy in favor of Chris Harshy.

Harshy's first pitch went to ISU catcher Jim Slate, who singled to drive in two runs. His next pitch to rightfielder John Giesler was hammered over the fence for a three-run homer.

Yarborough wins in Mason-Dixon

DOVER, Del. (UPI) — Cale Yarborough, cooped by Richard Petty's blown-out Dodge Charger with four laps to go, edged and went on to finish first in the $92,000 Mason-Dixon 500 NASCAR race.

Yarborough, of Timmonsville, S.C., recorded an average speed of 119.3 mph over his 160-lap Chevrolet Monte Carlo over the one-mile oval track. He took home a first prize purse of $15,500.

Defending champion David Pearson, who drove his Mercury to a track record of 131.40 mph in Saturday's qualifying round, finished second.

Ex Yankee chief dies

MIAMI (UPI) — Don Top, Miami's president over 15 American League pennant teams and 10 world champions during 21 years as president of the New York Yankees, died Saturday night at Miami Heart Institute. It was disclosed Sunday.

Topping, 63, was rushed to the hospital with "breathing difficulties" shortly before noon Saturday and died at 6:15 p.m. Topping's debut into professional sports came in 1924 when he purchased 50 per cent of the stock in the Brooklyn Dodgers professional football team.

Nampa nips Lewiston for title

LEWISTON (UPI) — Nampa survived a seventh-inning rally by defeating Idaho's local champion, Lewiston, with the bases loaded and one out, to win the state crown, 3-2.

Blocking the plate

Bob Bailey drove in three runs with two singles and a sacrifice fly and Ernie McNally hurried a four-hit lead to the Expos to victory over the Mets in the nightcap for their first doubleheader sweep of the season.

In the opener, Ken Singleton's second double to right scored Willie Davis with the go-ahead run in the fifth inning and gave the Expos a win.

Jerry Reuss pitched a six-hitter and Willie Stargell doubled Fennie Stennett home from first base with the deciding run in the fifth inning, giving the Pirates a victory in the nightcap over Philadelphia.

Non-qualifiers threaten suit if Indy doesn't allow chance

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — A representative of non-qualified cars threatened legal action Sunday against the Indianapolis Motor Speedway unless 500-mile race time trials are extended.

Wright Huges Jr., an attorney and associate of the Hoyt Woods Racing Team, held a meeting of car owners, drivers and mechanics "we want to work within the rules of the United States Auto Club to right a wrong."

"There was no possible way these cars could have had time to qualify" for next Sunday's race, he said.

Huges was referring to the fact that 11 machines were left standing at the starting line late Saturday when time trials were ended.

Entrants for nine cars filed a protest with USAC in an effort to be permitted a chance to make the 33-car field, but this was denied by the stewards headed by Tom Binford.

This left the challenging crews with the alternative of obtaining a certificate signed by the entrants in the field and two alternates that they approve reopening of the trials or go to court.

Binford said Sunday if the protesting parties come up with a petition by 1 p.m. EDT Monday signed by the entrants now in the race, he would "reconsider" an extension of the time trials.

"Ultimately, the decision to extend time trial rests with the Indianapolis Motor Speedway," Binford said. "It's their track."

Carner takes LPGA title in sudden death

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Diering JoAnn Carner, fortified by nothing more than a milkshake and two cups of coffee all day, defeated Sandra Spuzich in a sudden-death playoff Sunday to win the $25,000 Ladies Bluegrass golf Tournament with a bogey.

Mrs. Carner and Miss Spuzich, a runnerup in the tourney for the second year in a row, both finished with four-under-par 215s and then settled their playoff on the first extra hole as JoAnn broke a three-year winless slump. The victory was worth $5,000.

On the sudden-death 18th hole, Miss Spuzich was forced to gamble when she was downed behind a tree to the left of the fairway with her pulled tee-shot. Her second shot struck the tree, and left her still stymied.

Mrs. Carner was down the middle with her three-wood tee shot, hit her five-iron approach just short of the green, and chipped about 10 feet in a downhill putt.

Judy Rankin finished third with a two-under-par 217 and Fourth with a 218.

Kathy Whitworth, who tied Mrs. Carner for the lead when they completed their rain-interrupted second round Sunday morning, faltered in the final 18-hole round and wound up in a four-way tie for fifth place at 219.

Finishing 11 strokes off the pace was defending champion Deana Caponi Young, who was unable to make up the deficit her first round 79 had saddled her with.

First-round leader, Jerilyn Brits, who posted the lowest score of the tourney when she shot a four-under-par 69 Friday, made her best finish since joining the LPGA tour last year and nearly equalled her total earnings to date.

Finishing 11 strokes off the pace was defending champion Deana Caponi Young, who was unable to make up the deficit her first round 79 had saddled her with.

First-round leader, Jerilyn Brits, who posted the lowest score of the tourney when she shot a four-under-par 69 Friday, made her best finish since joining the LPGA tour last year and nearly equalled her total earnings to date.

On the sudden-death 18th hole, Miss Spuzich was forced to gamble when she was downed behind a tree to the left of the fairway with her pulled tee-shot. Her second shot struck the tree, and left her still stymied.

Mrs. Carner was down the middle with her three-wood tee shot, hit her five-iron approach just short of the green, and chipped about 10 feet in a downhill putt.

Judy Rankin finished third with a two-under-par 217 and

Curl's 25-foot birdie nets Colonial national victory

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Rod Curl, a Wata Indiana, responding to the pressure placed on him by golf's most feared player, snaked in a 25-foot sidehill putt on the 18th green Sunday that launched him to his first victory in the PGA's initial designated tournament, the $250,000 Colonial National.

The event presided over by Jack Nicklaus, the last of Curl's all day, but when Nicklaus finally moved into the lead with a birdie putt at the 14th hole, Curl produced a birdie of his own that led to the $50,000 first prize.

The 35, always jovial Curl shot a final round 68 over the testy-par 70 Colonial Country club course for a four-round total of four-under-par 284, one shot better than Nicklaus and two better than Chuck Courtney.

Nicklaus fired a final round 68 and Courtney, who had taken two-shot lead going into the final day, settled for a 74.

Julius Boros, who at 51 was attempting to become one of the oldest men to win a PGA event, finished fourth at 72, three shots back, after a 72 on Sunday.

Lee Trevino, who at one time moved to within a shot of the lead, fired a 70 and finished fifth at 73.

Curl, who finished second at Houston last week, has won more than $62,000 in the last two weeks — which is $7,000 more than he has ever won in a single year since joining the tour in 1969.

In capturing the Colonial over every major tour golfer, Curl boosted his 1974 earnings to more than $104,000.

Curl started Sunday two strokes behind Courtney but had caught up by the third hole and took the lead for good when he birdied the tough par-three fourth.

He assumed as much as a three-stroke lead on the back nine, before he bogeyed two holes in the row which allowed Courtney and Nicklaus one last shot at him.

However, after Curl birdied the 18th, both Nicklaus and Courtney suffered bogeys and both had to eagle the final hole to tie. Nicklaus put his second shot on the watery 18th pin high when it was obvious that he had won. Curl, slinging beneath a shade tree behind a fence jumped to his feet and clapped his hands.

Nicklaus then ran in his birdie putt to win second place by himself and $23,500, which also put over the $100,000 mark for the year.

Courtney, who had said before the round that he was "always a winner of Nicklaus when Nicklaus was close behind, won $17,750.

Curl, 31, earned only a meager existence on the tour for the first four years. But last year he earned $55,068, which earned him a spot in the top 60 money winners and an exemption for this year's tour.

The native of Heddington, Calif., became a consistent player on the circuit this year despite his inability to pull off a victory. He tied for second in the San Diego Open as well as last week and placed in the top 10 on three other occasions.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, MAY 21, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Wind up any business or money matters you may have underway in a harmonious manner, for most people today feel they are being taken advantage of, and want to argue and dispute statements, reports and even comments made by others. Keep calm.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't begin new venture yet. Pay bills. Don't take the bait from one looking for a quarrel. Keep what could otherwise be a good friendship.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't try to jump the gun in order to get the things you want, but let everything work out normally and it will be fine.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make that plan that will be successful only if you attend to every detail properly. Avoid arguments at all cost. Help pal.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Steer clear of time-wasters now when you are busily accomplishing a good deal. Avoid social affair in p.m. which would be disappointing.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't take chances of any kind. Get into activities that will make higher-ups appreciate you even more. Take up some relaxing new hobby.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) Postpone new project since others are not apt to be very helpful and it would not be done right. Put off meeting with a new acquaintance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't rely on your hunches since they are apt to be erroneous, so use only your best judgment today. Dine beautifully at home.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Not a good day for partnership matters. Steer clear of one who opposes you, or you get into a big fracas. Think positively.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Work is difficult enough today, but take care not to stir up trouble with others and make it more so. Fall in line with co-workers.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Plan how to have a good time at some new and inexpensive recreation. Avoid a long-time friend who is in an odd humor.

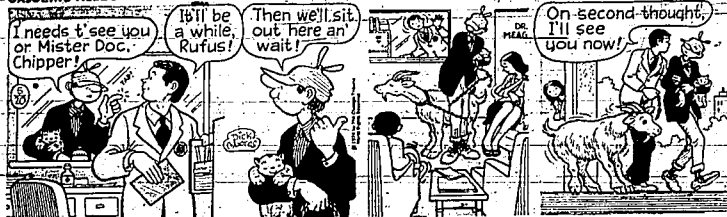

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Avoid topics at home that could start a big fracas; keep cheerful instead. Just because you are feeling disturbed, don't take it out on others.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Taking care in whatever your activities are is necessary today, especially where driving is concerned. Avoid contentious remarks.

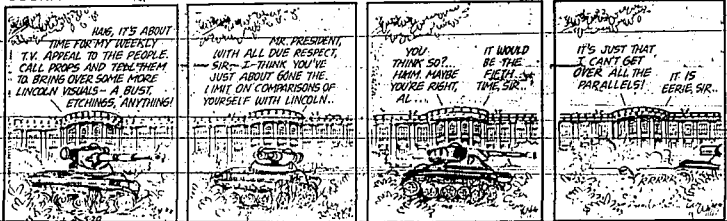

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY: ...he or she will need duties to perform early to the active mind here will keep out of trouble and develop the habit of work that will make the lifetime worthwhile. Otherwise your progeny could go off on the wrong side of the track. Give the right kind of religious training early. Set up a fund for education for your child. Some sports here.

One in every 10 shoppers in the supermarket winds up at the checkout counter without enough money to pay the bill. Such is the report of a marketing expert. Question arises as to what items such consumers will most likely be sent back. Research reveals them to be candy, gum, ice cream, cookies, books, toys, pet foods, beauty aids, polishes, waxes and air-fresheners. That item least likely to be sent back, it is said, is beer.

HAIR STYLE
Best beauty advice I can offer you, young lady, is get a hair style that suits your personality. Such was the counsel of British-theatrical producer, General Edwards, who quipped as a consequence of a lightning publicity stunt. It's said his shows with London's Gaiety Theatre Company paraded most beautiful women than other stage productions anywhere. He was mightily opposed to those identical hairdos, such as the beehives, put out by the assembly-line salons to make all women look alike from the eyebrows up.
